SUMMARY

Frontend development student at Medieinstitutet with a lifelong interest in technology and gaming that has always sparked my curiosity about how digital products are built.

After my high school education in animal care, I chose to follow a different passion and change careers to web development. A decision that took courage but feels completely right. My empathetic background helps me always put the user experience at the center.

I am passionate about UX, accessibility and how AI can be used in modern development processes. Seeking a LIA internship where I can grow, contribute meaningfully and explore the intersection of frontend and AI.
